As a native of the Southwest, I have always had a love for artistic beauty. Everything I paint and the music I play is a constant attempt to explore expressing that beauty. It is everywhere you look here. I enjoy bringing out the attitude, feeling and sometimes Native American spirituality I see in my subjects.

I primarily owe any artistic talent I have to my mother. She is an artist herself who's patient and casual instruction has never failed to be helpful and encouraging. Then there is Monet, who's honest representation of light and temperature I have always found fascinating.
